The magazine
at the heart of the movement

Trade union affiliation

Red Pepper is a bi-monthly magazine and website of left politics and culture, a space for debate and a resource for movements for social justice - a home for anyone who wants to see a world based on equality, meaningful democracy and freedom.

Trade unions are at the forefront of that fight for a better world, which is why, over the last 18 years, we have placed the coverage of union activity at the centre of our work.

From the local to the international, we report on grassroots union activity, we bust the myths spread by right-wing press, we connect activists from across the movement and we provide a place to imagine what a better world would look like.

'Red Pepper is an indispensable forum in which a more just, ecological future is being debated and imagined every day.'

Naomi Klein

'With most of the media so hostile to trade unions, it's important for people to read a positive view of how we're fighting for the alternative to austerity.'

Mark Serwotka

'Red Pepper has a very important place in British journalism. It's independent, it's radical and it's intelligent'

Tony Benn
